Framework listed seven separate categories, called “gears”, of collaborative leadership centered around and supporting professional student learning. For this new plan, KUSD will focus on five of the seven gears. Gears identified as “Use of Space and Time” and “Community Partnerships” are integrated within other gear goals, as DPI suggests as a possible pathway over the course of implementation.

The KUSD Technology Leadership Planning Team completed the initial “Digital Learning Readiness Report” and received an overall score of 7.2 out of 10. This overall baseline data was then compared to the scores from each gear surveyed by different stakeholder groups. These results were further aligned to the 2016 Wisconsin DPI Digital Learning Plan which assists school districts in developing their local goals related to quality technology integration and support. Based on that review, the proposed goals were established and listed below. Each gear lends itself to a specific function while at the same time all of the areas should align to the current mission, vision and goals for school districts.

To accomplish this change process, strong leadership is crucial for district superintendents and their leader teams. In preparation for developing this framework, the KUSD superintendent has supported and signed the respective Future Ready District Pledge. This pledge presents a commitment to improving the technology integration and overall support for quality digital learning. Currently, over 3,100 school superintendents representing over 19.2 million students have signed this pledge. Based on a desire to define evidence-based approaches to manage this process, the U.S. Department of Education and the American Institutes for Research (AIR) published a rubric on the ccnd s136.11 0 an ln.298 Tt(i)6(v)14(ec(,)2(10(f)(c)10)2(or)7(t)2(r)7(i)d)1J 0 Tc 0 Tw ( Din201denc7,w -3ct.068 u arBatioao rse10(f)2(or)6.urrent( pud7(s)o)9.9iD6(c)4(t)2( P)1fovt7(t)o2(ed

The National Coalition for Core Arts Standards is an alliance of national arts and arts education organizations dedicated to ensuring quality standards-based arts opportunities for all students.

The artistic processes are the cognitive and physical actions by which arts learning and making are realized. Inspired by the 1997 National Assessment of Education Progress (NAEP) Arts Education Assessment Framework, the National Core Arts Standards are based on the artistic processes of creating, performing/producing/presenting, responding and connecting.

The move to adopt the NCCAS is not meant to be an opportunity to throw out the current standards and start over. As teachers have begun exploring the NCCAS, it has become apparent that the task at hand is more of reorganizing and recategorizing what is currently in place. There is a high level of motivation for this, and many teachers have commented that they feel the structure and organization of the NCCAS makes sense and will lead to better quantification of student learning. The process of reviewing the current materials, with the goal of refining the scope and sequence in each of the fine arts disciplines and examining assessment practice, has resulted in a natural evolution of the discussion to implement the new standards.

All fine arts departments have been working with the NCCAS, and there is agreement that as each course or grade level is revised (based on the curriculum revision timeline), the new NCCAS standards will be used (Appendix B).

The implementation of the NCCAS will offer an opportunity to improve student achievement in all areas of fine arts through language unification, enhanced organizational elements and a focus on artistic literacy. The purpose of this update is to formally adopt the NCCAS so that the new standards can be used to guide continuing curriculum work.
